

The Last Wagon Company

Six weeks ago, a flooded caravan was ordered abandoned with wounded passengers still aboard. You refused. Some of you braced the wagon and carried passengers through the water; others found shelter, tended injuries or went back for those still missing. You brought the people home together.

Afterward, you registered the Last Wagon Company with equal shares and one promise: nobody gets left behind. You have since worked, eaten and argued together. The bonds on your character sheets grew out of that rescue; you begin play as companions who already trust one another.

Choose one of the eight characters that follow: Mara Holt, Pebb Dallow, Dori Ashlar, Tamsin Reed, Ilen Sedge, Orren Pike, Seris Vale or Nerin Quill. The unchosen companions can be elsewhere on company business.

Mara Holt	Escort and shield protector
Pebb Dallow	Negotiator and former forger
Dori Ashlar	Bridge worker and mechanism specialist
Tamsin Reed	Healer and Flesh Shaper
Ilen Sedge	Courier, runner and archer
Orren Pike	Dockworker, rescuer and wrestler
Seris Vale	Woodland guide and tracker
Nerin Quill	Survey assistant and Force/Motion Shaper

Mara Holt

Human / 27 / Road-watch escort & shield protector

Broad-shouldered and square-faced, with close-cropped brown hair, a crooked healed nose, and a pale rope scar across her left palm. Her leather armour is carefully restitched at the right shoulder.

Personality: Patient, practical, and quietly funny. She mends other people's straps and remembers who dislikes cold tea. Under stress, she gives jobs before asking what others have noticed.

Background: Mara left the road watch when ordered to save a merchant's cargo before stranded passengers. During the flood, she braced the wagon and returned for its last injured guard.

Goal: Make the company's charter a welcome sight to frightened travellers, regardless of who can pay.

Bond: Pebb talked a hostile tollkeeper into opening shelter during the flood. Mara trusts their judgement and gives negotiations time.

"Tell me when you are ready. I will hold."

TALENTS

Protector

When an adjacent ally is hit by an attack Mara is aware of, spend her base Reaction to Parry with her ready shield at 58%. Success reduces damage normally; failure leaves the ally hit. Ranged attacks use Active Guard eligibility and modifiers. The ally keeps their Reaction, but cannot also React to this attack. Mara's extra off-hand Reaction cannot be used.

Shield Cover

While Mara is aware and her large shield is ready, ranged attacks and individually targeted Projected Shaping against her suffer -1P. This costs no Reaction and applies before Active Guard. Use only the best Shield Cover or terrain penalty. Dodge and Active Guard remain available. This gives no protection against areas or Direct Harm.

Favoured Weapon (Arming Sword)

Damaging attacks with Mara's arming sword gain +1 damage before Parry and armour, already included on page 1. This includes a primitive arming sword, but not use as an improvised club. No bonus applies when normal damage is replaced, including Disarm, Trip, Shield Rush, Subdue, or an unopposed Critical. A Critical opposed by an ordinary Reaction retains the bonus.

Athletics Expertise (Climbing)

On Athletics tests for climbing, remove up to 1 remaining Penalty die after ordinary Bonus/Penalty cancellation and before the final dice cap. This never creates Bonus dice and does not apply to other Athletics uses.

Pebb Dallow

Goblin / 22 / Former document forger & negotiator

Small and fine-boned, with olive skin, wide amber eyes, and an ink-stained pin through one ear. His russet waistcoat has carefully matched patches. He straightens his cuff before important conversations.

Personality: Cheerful, observant, and offended by sloppy paperwork. He enjoys a clever bluff but prefers a bargain everyone can live with. His weakness is explaining one sentence too much.

Background: Pebb learned accurate copying and fraudulent amendments from the same employer. The flood brought him companions whose respect mattered more than another false signature.

Goal: Build the company's good name through honest work, starting with one public job finished properly.

Bond: Dori crawled beneath the flooded wagon to reach him. Pebb trusts Dori's structural warnings without demanding a demonstration.

"We can put that in writing. Properly, this time."

TALENTS & ANCESTRY

Blind Sight (heat)

Pebb perceives heat-contrasting targets regardless of illumination. Solid barriers, heavy insulation, and targets at ambient temperature defeat this sense. It reveals no colour, writing, fine visual detail, or eye contact.

Silver Tongue

On Influence tests to persuade or bargain, remove up to 1 remaining Penalty die after ordinary Bonus/Penalty cancellation and before the final dice cap. Pebb must have time to talk and an audience still willing to listen. This never creates Bonus dice and never applies to threats.

Deception Expertise (Misdirection)

On Deception tests using misdirection, remove up to 1 remaining Penalty die after ordinary Bonus/Penalty cancellation and before the final dice cap. This never creates Bonus dice and does not apply to other uses of Deception.

The person behind the paperwork

Pebb notices the phrase an official keeps repeating and asks what each side really needs. When a bluff fails, he admits it to his companions instead of trapping them in the story. He wants their trust to outlast his most convincing explanation.

Dori Ashlar

Dwarf / 28 / Bridge surveyor & mechanism specialist

Short and heavily built, with warm brown skin, a dense black beard tied clear of his hands, and a nick in his right eyebrow. His fingertips carry ground-in stone dust.

Personality: Deliberate, curious, and generous with explanations. He names tools affectionately and sketches while listening. His weakness is wanting one more measurement when it is already time to act.

Background: Raised by Moruni bridge-workers in Whitewater, Dori learned his trade on March crews. During the flood he crawled beneath the wagon and found sound ground to brace it.

Goal: Bring the missing surveyors home and someday lead a crew that listens before someone gets hurt.

Bond: Tamsin talked him through the lifting rhythm when panic threatened. He trusts her to recognise when courage has become exhaustion.

"It can be done. Let me show you where to stand."

TALENTS & ANCESTRY

Blind Sight (heat)

Dori perceives heat-contrasting targets regardless of illumination. Solid barriers, heavy insulation, and targets at ambient temperature defeat this sense. It reveals no colour, writing, fine visual detail, or eye contact.

Earth Sense

While touching connected earth or stone, Dori knows his approximate depth and whether the surrounding chamber is structurally unstable.

Close-Quarters Knack

For Athletics or Mechanisms tests, remove up to 1 remaining Penalty die caused by cramped or confined surroundings, after ordinary Bonus/Penalty cancellation and before the final dice cap. This never creates a Bonus die. It cannot remove penalties for darkness, unstable footing, inadequate tools, enemy action, or other causes.

The person behind the tools

Dori crouches to sight along a surface before trusting his weight to it. He explains his doubts rather than making a mystery of them. A clear deadline helps him stop measuring and choose. Workers' observations matter to him, whatever their rank.

Tamsin Reed

Human / 24 / Synod-trained healer & Flesh Shaper

Tall and narrow-faced, with dark curls bound back and a small burn scar on her forearm. Her sleeves are evenly rolled; her hands are clean whenever possible.

Personality: Warm, direct, and dryly humorous. She asks before touching a patient and makes no promises she cannot keep. She neglects her own exhaustion; a clear handover helps her accept rest.

Background: Raised in Whitewater, she trained in a Synod infirmary, where faith meant cleaning the floor after everyone else left. During her initiation vigil, she heard seven heartbeats in her own pulse and closed an injury by touch.

Goal: Bring the missing people home alive. Honour her teachers through practical care and keep her patients' confidences.

Bond: Mara returned for the last injured guard. Tamsin trusts her to keep the company's promise: nobody gets left behind.

"You can be frightened. Keep talking to me."

Silent autopsy

Scry·Flesh / Touch / 2 PP

Learn one physical fact from a body: cause of death, age of a wound, or presence of poison or disease.

Ilen Sedge

Human / 21 / Courier, runner & archer

Long-legged and lightly built, with brown skin, a spray of freckles, and a short braid tucked into his collar. His boots are worn thin at the outside heels. He checks doorways before choosing a seat.

Personality: Curious, punctual, and careful with confidences. He remembers small promises. His weakness is moving before everyone agrees on a destination; he is learning to announce his route first.

Background: Ilen was a passenger on the flooded caravan and helped carry its injured travellers. Courier work taught him which alleys connect, when gates close, and how long journeys really take.

Goal: Deliver the company's first substantial job as promised and earn a reputation worth defending.

Bond: Pebb returns misplaced sealed messages unopened. Ilen trusts his discretion, even when an explanation sounds improbable.

"I can get there. Tell me exactly what they need to hear."

TALENTS

Quick Reflexes

Add 2 to Combat Order before rolling to determine acting order. This bonus is already included in Ilen's Combat Order 14 on page 1.

Battle Awareness

While Ilen is aware of at least one enemy, attacks against him gain no +1B merely for flanking or attacking from behind. Genuine surprise still applies, including being unable to React.

Athletics Expertise (Running)

On Athletics tests for running, remove up to 1 remaining Penalty die after ordinary Bonus/Penalty cancellation and before the final dice cap. This never creates Bonus dice and does not apply to other Athletics uses.

Steady Aim

Ilen keeps the benefit of Aim after taking a Reaction. He still loses it if he loses sight of the target, or does not make that attack with his next Combat Action.

Orren Pike

Orc / 26 / Dockworker, salvage hand & wrestler

Tall and thick through the chest, with grey-green skin, small lower tusks, and dark hair tied in a short queue. His left ear is flattened from wrestling. He handles delicate cups with conspicuous care.

Personality: Courteous, literal, and fond of dreadful verse. He dislikes intimidation dressed up as leadership. His weakness is accepting a hard physical job before admitting he needs help.

Background: Orren learned salvage work and wrestling on Vellbridge's wharves. Hired to unload the last wagon, he stayed to lift it when the flood came.

Goal: Earn an honest living with his strength while protecting his neighbours and company partners.

Bond: Mara gave him responsibility during the rescue without treating him as expendable muscle. He trusts her to ask for his judgement as well as his strength.

"Which end do you want lifted?"

TALENTS & ANCESTRY

Adrenaline Surge

Once per combat, immediately after becoming Wounded or Fatigued, ignore their test, Movement, and Combat Order penalties until the end of Orren's next turn. Also ignore the first 1 HP lost to Bleeding during that time. Bleeding continues afterwards. Exhausted, unconscious, and Dying are unaffected.

Subdue

Make a blunt Close Combat or Unarmed attack. If not stopped, roll normal weapon/unarmed damage plus DM, then apply partial Parry and armour. Reaching the target's Major Wound Level leaves them unconscious, stable, with no HP lost. Otherwise, inflict only the weapon's minimum listed damage, reduced by partial Parry and armour. Talent damage bonuses do not apply. The target wakes at scene end, immediately upon damage, or after successful Healing as a Combat Action.

Wrestler

While already grappling, spend a Combat Action and win an opposed Unarmed Combat (54%) test. Choose: deal normal unarmed damage (armour applies); make the target drop one held item at their feet; or throw them to an adjacent space, leaving them prone and ending the grapple. The GM may bar outcomes against impossible Size or anatomy.

The person behind the muscle

Orren checks a lifting strap before trusting it and offers a practical share of the work. He takes promises literally and recites terrible verses with complete sincerity. If he takes on too much, offer him a specific share of the load to hand over. He wants people to feel safer when he arrives.

Seris Vale

Elf / 25 / Woodland guide, tracker & archer

Lean and angular, with copper-brown skin, dark eyes, and ash-blond hair cut below her ears. Her green-grey travelling clothes have practical brown repairs. She becomes very still when listening.

Personality: Wry, attentive, and unexpectedly talkative over a meal. She explains tracks and weather plainly. Her weakness is distrusting a convenient shortcut until she has checked it herself.

Background: Seris grew up guiding the wooded approaches to Whitewater. She led the flooded caravan towards firmer ground and joined the charter instead of taking another solitary season.

Goal: Make the routes between isolated households safer for everyone who travels them.

Bond: Ilen returned along a dangerous path to correct a message. She trusts him to report when a route has changed.

"Something passed here. Let us work out how recently."

On Natural Lore tests to find or follow a trail, remove up to 1 remaining Penalty die after ordinary Bonus/Penalty cancellation and before the final dice cap. This never creates Bonus dice and applies to no other use of Natural Lore.

Wayfinder

While Seris can see the sky or read the ground, downgrade a navigation Fumble to an ordinary Failure. This prevents the group from becoming lost through that test. Other travel hazards remain: weather, pace, and finding food, water, or shelter use their ordinary rules.

Nerin Quill

Human / 23 / Survey assistant & Force/Motion Shaper

Slight, with deep brown skin, close-set hazel eyes, and tightly curled hair escaping a cloth tie. His left sleeve is always tucked higher than the right.

Personality: Earnest, curious, and quick to explain a useful observation. He laughs at his own mistakes. His weakness is wanting a field test before every practical risk has been discussed.

Background: Nerin carried instruments and kept records for a survey crew. When a damaged gate collapsed, its weight hung on the cadence he was shouting. A Shaper taught him to repeat that discovery safely.

Goal: Return with honest observations others can verify, along with everyone who helped obtain them.

Bond: Dori admitted an early estimate was wrong, corrected it, and carried on. Nerin trusts that competence more than claims of perfection.

"Three paces. Nothing else moves."
